

Mulkey's Birthing Place - Operation Restoration

Dreamed early morning of October 20, 2024, by Greg Hood

This dream, we believe, speaks to an upcoming Healing Summit Meeting at The Oasis Church in Middletown, OH, in October 2024 and the release of the restoration of the healing movement in America.

At the beginning of the dream, Dutch and I, along with Tim Sheets, Ken Malone, Pat McManus and Clay Nash, stood in a small clearing in a hilly woods area. As we stood there, a vast man approached us from a path. We knew this was an angel as he approached us in the clearing. The path he was walking down was very narrow and somewhat overgrown. As he exited the path into the opening that we were in, he put his hand on an old wooden gate that had the path closed off. A wooden sign on the gate read "DO NOT ENTER," and the number 3249. Underneath the numbers, it read Mulkey's birthing place.

The gate disappears as the Angel approaches the gate, and the path opens.

He approached us and said that he was a Restoration Angel. The path was now open for us to walk down, and he was there to lead us down it. At the end of the path, there was an assignment for us. He said our assignment was to Complete "Operation Restoration."

We began to walk down the path following the Angel. As we did in a short time, we came to a massive opening with a dilapidated building. It was a log cabin. He turned to Dutch and said, "There is a huge and diverse toolbox at the door of this dilapidated cabin. You are to take the tools and disperse them to those who are with you." When Dutch approached the toolbox, there was a combination lock on it. Dutch then turned to the Angel and asked what the box combination was and how we could open them. He said the combination to the lock is 363. Dutch immediately entered the code and opened the large toolbox; inside, it was divided into several compartments for holding a vast amount of tools. The tools in this particular toolbox section were wrapped in what looked like butcher's paper with bows. We knew they were gifts. At this time, we looked around and noticed other people standing there with us, many of whom we did not know, and somehow we did. Dutch reached into the box, started pulling these tools out, handing them to us, and instructed us to give them to everyone around. The 'tool' gifts were wrapped in butcher paper and seemed endless. We managed to distribute them to everyone present.

We noticed that after emptying that first compartment, there was another compartment under it. It also had a combination lock on it. Dutch then turned to the Restoration Angel and asked, "May we have the combination for this lock as well." The Angel replied and said yes, "The combination is 2476." Dutch promptly entered the code and was able to lift the top portion of the toolbox compartment out. There were three old-looking, very deep vessels inside the toolbox. On each vessel were written numbers. On the first vessel was the number 1636. The second vessel had the number 218, and the third vessel had the number 605 on it. The Angel told Dutch, "Your assignment is to restore this Mulkey's old birthing place. You will make this old place come to life again by mixing the contents of the vessels and applying them to the old logs. Use the tools from the toolbox to apply the mixture to the logs, and they will live again.

Dutch then turned to me and said, "Hood, how do we mix these, and how do we ensure that the mixture is precise?" I turned to Dutch and said, "There's an old well inside the building. We must take all three vessels inside and pour them into the Well. Everyone here to help with "Operation Restoration" will draw from the Well; as they draw, the Well itself will give the one who draws the proper mixture for the building portion he will work on."

It took all five of us to pull the three vessels out of the toolbox and carry them inside. We did this one by one. We then began to pour them into the Well in the order in which we took them out of the toolbox. As we poured the first one, a cloud began to emerge. We could see it from deep within the Well now. We pour the second, and the cloud becomes a fire. We could see it rising very swiftly to the top of the whale. As we poured in the third one, the cloud and the fire turned into an enormously bright light! Dutch then began to instruct everyone outside to walk into the building and dip the gift they had received from the toolbox into the Well. As they did this, they could go to the very particular part of this building they were assigned to work on and begin restoring. The restoration process seemed seamless, and people knew what to do in the dream.

The Angel told us, "Go over and get the wood from the corner of the room and bring it to the Well. We all five walked over to the corner of the room, for it would take us all to get it to the Well, and there said a very old, dry wooden pulpit. It did; it took all five of us to pick it up and bring it to the Well. It was cumbersome.

The Angel told Dutch, "There's a stack of letters inside the pool pit; take them out. I will need the letters to be mailed." Dutch reached into the pulpit and pulled out a stack of letters. I could only see the first letter on top of the pile. It was addressed to Chuck Pierce. Dutch handed me the letter and said, "Hood, be sure this gets mailed to Chuck along with the other to whom they are addressed." As he handed me the letters, something was rattling on the inside. It sounded like seeds. The Angel recognized that I was curious about what was in the envelope, and he said to me, "These are seeds of restoration that I will distribute throughout the nation." I looked at the letter and noticed it did not have a return address, only a name. The name was Rev. Freed. I took the letters given to me and put them in my coat pocket to mail.

By this time, the restoration process of the building was completed in the dream. The Angel led us back outside the building, and it was now a lovely restored log cabin. He said to Dutch,

"You're going to have to extend the pillars under the building. You will have to raise it higher than it is right now." He went on to say, "You must raise it to 22 feet in the air. Every pillar will be 22 feet." Dutch then called everyone around and said, "We're going to have to lift this building together, and as we lift this building, all of that are apostles and prophets, grab the pillars and begin to push them up to 22 feet.

As Dutch began to give this working order, we could hear deafening noises of growling and shouting from the wooded area. The Angel noticed our concern and said, "Don't mind all the noise. It's there to distract you from accomplishing your task. Once the pillars reach 22 feet and the restoration is complete, the voices from the woods will cease." His words turned our attention back to elevating the building to 22 feet into the air. As we completed the task, the voices in the woods stopped shouting and growling! In the dream, I knew that something supernatural had just taken place. The Well in the middle of the room had extended to the 22-foot mark by itself.

The scene shifted in the dream, and we all stood inside the building, looking out the windows. It was not until this point that we could see that the large field the cabin was in was the shape of the United States of America.

End of dream.
